

ISCO S-ASIA 2011 INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
ON SPINAL CORD MEDICINE AND REHABILITATION

JUNE 4-8, 2011—GRAND HYATT WASHINGTON HOTEL

THE STATE OF THE SCIENCE IN SPINAL CORD INJURY REHABILITATION:

INFORMING A NEW RESEARCH AGENDA

PURPOSE: Create an international agenda for spinal cord injury (SCI) rehabilitation research through 2020 by identifying research priorities that facilitate improved programs, practices and policies for rehabilitation of individuals with SC

HTTP://WWW.ASIA-ISCOS2011.ORG/STATE_OF_SCIENCE.PHP

Keynote Speakers

- Gary Karp, San Rafael, Calif.
- James W Fawcett, Ph.D., M.R.C.P.,
Cambridge Centre for Brain Repair, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, England, United Kingdom

Topics: The topics below will be addressed in parallel tracks; attendees will be expected to read the papers available on the conference website in advance in order to participate in developing a set of recommendations.

Track 1. Neurologic and Functional Recovery:

- Mary Galea, Ph.D., Melbourne School of Health Sciences, Melbourne, Australia;
- Armin Curt, M.D., Balgrist University Hospital, Zurich, Switzerland

Track 2. Aging and Secondary Complications:

- Luigi Ferrucci, M.D., Ph.D., National Institute of Aging, Bethesda, Md.
- Michael J. DeVivo, Dr.P.H., University of Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

Track 3. Technology for Mobility and Function:

- Martin Ferguson-Pell, Ph.D., University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada;
- Mark Humayun, M.D., Ph.D., University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Calif.

Track 4. Psychosocial, Vocational and Quality of Life Outcomes:

- Lex Frieden, M.A., LL.D., University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston and Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, Texas;
- TBA

Target Audience: Researchers, clinicians, funding agencies, policymakers, consumers and their families
Early registration $200. For registration, agenda and full list of speakers, see website.

HTTP://WWW.ASIA-ISCOS2011.ORG/STATE_OF_SCIENCE.PHP

(The State of the Science(SOS) is the Pre-Course to the above captioned conference. It will take place on Sunday, June 5, 2011, with small group discussion sessions scheduled on Monday afternoon, June 6, 2011. There will be a final report to the entire conference on Tuesday morning, June 7, 2011. While the primary programming for the SOS is on Sunday, registration includes Monday and Tuesday programming as described here.)